Respect for the Principles of the United Nations (UN) Charter, the Constitutive Act of the African Union, the Five Principles of Peaceful Co-existence and other universally recognized principles governing relations among states and adherence to the principle of respect for state sovereignty and territorial integrity as well as avoidance of the abuse of the principle of universal jurisdiction.
2. The right of all states to participate in international affairs on an equal footing.
3. Adherence to the principle of peaceful settlement of international disputes and resolution of conflicts between states through negotiation, consultation or by other peaceful means rather than by use of force or by the threat of use of force.
